LINDEN WOOD occupies one of the beautiful heights of St. Charles, one mile westwardly from the town, and twenty from the city of St. Louis. Although entirely secluded from noise and dust, it is conveniently accessible. Its ample grounds, groves and gardens, afford abundant space for exercise and recreation; and the experience of many years, fully attests its healthfulness.

As all the pupils admitted, must necessarily be boarders at Linden Wood, they will consequently be, at all times, under the care and observation of their Preceptors. Their health, apparel, expenses, recreations, amusements, associations, manners and behavior, will all be regulated with parental watchfulness.

The plan of this school, except in one particular, will remain as heretofore. It promotes a thorough course of Instruction, Intellectual, Moral, and Domestic—based on the settled principles of Christianity, and adapted to those on which are founded the free institutions of our own highly favoured country.

The Intellectual Branch, embraces such studies as are usually deemed requisite to form a chaste cultivated and well informed mind. In the other two branches, are comprised all the moral and domestic duties of Women, which will be inculcated, under a deep conviction of their permanent importance, and in a manner to give a decidedly national bias to the youthful mind. It will be the constant aim of the conductors of this Institution, to furnish the youth under their care (sufficient time being allowed) such an education as will enable them to become respectable, useful, and enlightened members of society: to fit them, not only to enjoy the rational pleasures of life, as accountable beings, but also to discharge with ease and grace, all the peculiar duties of the sex.

Women is the most important sex; and if but half of our race can be educated, let it be women instead of man. Women form our character in early life; she saves us in infancy; she watches us in sickness, mothers us in distress, and chases us in the merriment of old age. Her rank, determines that of her race: if she be high-minded and virtuous, with a soul thirsting for that which is holy, true and disinterested, so is it with the race: if she be light and vain, with her heart set on trifles, fond only of pleasure, alas for the community where she is so—it is ruined!"

Miss Rossetter has had the benefit of experience, in some of the best and most celebrated eastern schools, and is, in all respects, well qualified for the station she has undertaken to fill. Well qualified assistants will be employed when necessary; and it is intended that the School at Linden Wood shall be a permanent one, it is contemplated to make it contribute, in some degree, to elevate the character of our Western Literary Institutions.

In consequence of much misconception in relation to the Domestic department of this school, it is thought proper here to state, for the information of parents and others concerned, that hereafter nothing more will be required of the pupils, than to keep their sleeping and study rooms in good order.

Those who may wish further information, may obtain it by personal application at Linden Wood, or by addressing the subscriber through the Post Office, St. Charles.

G. C. SIBLEY.
