For Your Information

Important LU Academic and Administrative Information

August 16, 2011

The following subject area has a new post and a reminder.

Academic Affairs

This email will be archived in the Executive Documents Folder on the J-Drive for future reference.

Academic Affairs

Editor's Note: Lindenwood has an increasing number of opportunities for students to broaden their academic experiences through study-abroad courses. The J-Term courses involving foreign travel need promotion to succeed. While these are “events,” they are first and foremost academic endeavors, so they will occasionally be included in the FYI. Please print a copy of the attached brochure and post for students to read.

J-Term Travel/Course to Oaxaca, Mexico, 2012 Announcing that the Spanish language department is offering a fascinating 2 week J-Term travel cultural course to Oaxaca, Mexico, in J-Term 2012: FLS320 Travel to a Spanish-Speaking Country: Oaxaca, Mexico. The historical city of Oaxaca, in southern Mexico, is a beautiful Spanish colonial town, and also the cradle of the indigenous Zapotec civilization, among several others, and one of the richest states culturally in the country.

The J-Term trip/course will include daily Spanish classes with local Mexican instructors, a variety of visits to historical sites, indigenous ruins, local markets, and lectures on specific topics, among other activities. This J-Term is an 'all-inclusive' affair: Spanish classes, all activities, family stay, most meals, flight and transportation, and should cost between $2000-$2300, depending on fights.

If any of your advisees might be interested in participating--there is not language pre-requisites for this course, so beginners can participate--, they can contact the course professor, Nancy Cloutier-Davis (Ncloutierdavis@lindenwood.edu or X4183), for information. Note that a first deposit of $800 will be due by mid-September 2011.

Please read the attached brochure for additional information.

Reminder:
Dear Faculty,

Please go to the Book-X-Change website and check the books that are ordered for your classes. If you see any errors, please complete the attached form and submit to Jann Weitzel who will correspond with the book company.

Thank you

Jann Weitzel, Ph.D.
Provost / Vice President for Academic Affairs