Mary Ann Wilkins Heads Freshman Council; Glass V.P.

Mary Ann Wilkins, from Niccol's has been elected president of the freshman council for the first nine weeks. Other officers are: Diana Gless, scribe, vice president; Sue Berleman, Niccol's, secretary-treasurer; Judy Smith, Ayres, and Sandra Cook, Niccol's, student council representatives.

The council's present activity will be planning the Harvest Ball and style show. Fourteen freshman candidates will be nominated proportionately from the de- nominators October 28. A queen and first and second maids will be chosen from this group.

The candidates will model in street dress and formal before an all school convocation, Thursday, Nov. 6. At this time the student body will vote for a queen to reign over the Harvest Ball, Nov. 22.

Each girl on the freshman council will head a committee for the dance or style show. Freshman are urged to volunteer to work on the committee that interests them.

Nancy Lou Baker, Niccol's freshman, was installed junior cabinet president of the Student Christian Association last Sunday at the special SCA vespers service. The other two freshman officers are Judy Cotteral, vice-president; Mar- garet Seaman, secretary-treasurer, and Sally Sicks, treasurer.

The installation was a part of an all school radio light service in which all students were given a chance to choose SCA pledges. Election of the junior officers was held Oct. 9 at the SCA convocation. Attending with the officer安装 will be Patsey Petrey and Nancy Ball, student advisers and Miss Marie E. Schumacher, chairman of the group.

The junior cabinet this year will be in charge of passing out programs at services, the Student World Day of Prayer, the Asian book drive, and the nightly devotions on Lindenwood's radio station KCLC.

Revered Allen Hackett To Speak Sunday

Rev. Allen Hackett, D.D., pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church of St. Louis, will speak at vespers for the Reformation service this Sunday evening.

Rev. Hackett, a native New Yorker, received his training at Williams College and his theological training at Union Theological Seminary of New York. Before entering the seminary, Rev. Hackett was a minister in Taft School for two years. In college days, he was a wrestler, a swimmer, and a football player.

After completing his theology, he served the First Presbyterian Church in New York for five years and then was pastor of the Congregational Church in Connecticut. Prior to his pastorate in the Pilgrim Church in 1951, he was pastor for seven years in Indiana. He is the son of the former pastor to the St. Louis Metropolitan Church Federation.

Rev. Hackett is a bachelor with two children: a daughter who is the wife of a missionary in Madagascar, and a son, who is a freshman at Drake University.

Vesper service in the Lindenwood chapel will include the Lindenwood choir directed by Milton F. Rehg, assistant professor of music.

The St. Louis Reformation Service will be held Nov. 2 in Kidd Auditorium. Mr. Hackett is president of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, and will be the guest speaker.

A mass choir, composed of members from many churches of the Metropolitan Church Federation, will perform at the St. Louis Reformation service.

10 Students Aid New Church

10 Students Aid New Church

Teaching Sunday School is just one of the many projects which students discovered they had to perform when they helped staff a new church. Their efforts will be shown on television next week when an MPEG report shows in detail their activities at the John Knox Presbyterian Church, in Ffionn, Mo.

Until the church is better organized so that the adult members are able to take over the teaching themselves, the young women will continue.

The ten girls included Mary Brind, Nancy Lou Baker, and Judy last weekend. Cheryl Ellis, Gay Pauly, Jane Tibelet, Thalia Watkins, and Nan McGhee, and the seniors; and Betty Owens, junior.

The church, started by the St. Louis Presbytery, had a first attendance of approximately 150 people, the most ever to attend the first service of any church started by that presbytery.

Concert Given By Ozan Marsh

Ozan Marsh, concert pianist in residence here, was enthusiastically received by audiences at Lefkon, Tex., and recently he opened the concert season Oct. 8.

Mr. Marsh has been selected as the featured soloist with the Southwestern Youth Symphony Orchestra under the world famous conductor, Arthur Fiedler, in a nation-wide tour beginning next January. The tour will include more than 65 of the major cities of the United States in almost as many nights.

Of the performance a critic for the Lubbock Daily News said, "Throughout his performance last weekend he demonstrated prodigious technique which has brought rave notices from the nation's critics."

Marsh studied with Emil Sauer, one of the last living pupils of Franz Liszt, He has also studied with Paul Badura-Skoda in Canada, and later at the Fontainebleux where he was graduated "maestro cum laude" as Fontainebleux' most outstanding pupil.

Discussions, Fellowship Highlight SCA Retreat

Discussions, recreation and good fellowship kept more than 50 Lindenwood students busy at the Student Christian Association's annual retreat at the State Park in Salem, Illinois last weekend.

Loneliness, falling and loving were the topics of discussion. The students were divided into three groups and were rotated so that they were in all three discussions. The talks were led by faculty members assisted by the SCA cabinet members.

Saturday the students went on a tour of the village of Salem where Abraham Lincoln lived as a young man.
