You can't always judge by size. Alpha Psi Omega is perhaps one of the smallest clubs on campus, and yet its contributions to campus activities are among the biggest.

Each year this national dramatic fraternity puts on one of the two major play productions. This year it is "The Late Christopher Bean" to be presented at 7:30, November 17.

The sparse membership of Alpha Psi Omega may be attributed to the strict requirements which must be met to be eligible for membership. To be considered for election into the fraternity the applicant must have at least one major part in another production. A considerable amount of work must have been put in on building scenery and backstage work too. It is not only the amount of work you do, however, but also the merit of your participation is also considered. There are 235 chapters of Alpha Psi Omega scattered throughout the United States. The officers of Lindenwood's chapter are: Carol Greer, president; and Joy Hellwig, secretary-treasurer.

Student Council

Gives Surprise

Halloween Party

The Student Council surprised all Lindenwood students on Halloween by inviting them to a party. It was a "come as you are" party, and how some of the girls were quite interesting. There were many costumes and some of the girls were almost unrecognizable.

After being taken bodily from the dorms, the girls went through a slight obstacle course as they entered the hall, which contained the most horrible creature in history. The girls were admitted to the gym.

Various games were played, such as bobbing for apples, soap dancing, and pin the tail on the donkey. The famous Madam Zou Loo was seated in a nearby room to read handwriting. She told the girls of their future and assets. A group of students were Then after a ghost story was told by Carol Greer.

The Steinberg family who are the guests of Mrs. Sibey, all gathered outside Sibey chapel to listen to the haunting refrain were playing on the organ.

'Beatitudes' Takes Radio

Clinic Honors

The radio clinic which was held on October 27-28 left Lindenwood radio personnel feeling rather proud of the微型 equipment, and their patient KCLC was host to representatives from ten schools, and a large part of the two-day program was devoted to evaluation of sample shows put on by each participating school. Lindenwood entered four shows for commercial judging.

"Linda's Lane," a fifteen-minute variety show, dealt with life at Lindenwood. Nell Culver was Linda, Cynthia Riklin played Woodside, and June Sneed, Jean Know, and Arline Becker were also in the cast. Music was directed by Lila Tidwell and the trio were Marilyn Hoffman, Rita McGee, and Mona Lou Hand. This program was rated as an excellent feature for our campus. You may hear "Linda's Lane" every Wednesday night at 7:00 over KCLC.

"Party Line," a news program of Mel Bemis, was also well received as a news feature. The five-minute news broadcast for KCLC was written by Helen Parks and given by Carol Greer.

The production which took top honors among all the shows aired at the clinic was KCLC's presentation of the "Beatitudes," a fifteen-minute dramatic presentation of the Beatitudes from the Bible. In the cast were Jean Robb, Dott Hall, Marline Durrell, Nell Culver, and Pat Sowle. Music was arranged and played by group "B".

On the last night of the clinic the dramatic program, "Derrick's on A Hill," directed and cast by Ted Wescott of Station KSD, was presented.

The two-day session seemed to mean a great deal to all who par- ticipated. It is hoped that work clinics like it will follow each year.

C. C. Clayton

Attends Meeting

Charles C. Clayton, instructor in journalism left November 7 for Miami Beach, Fla., where he attended the National Convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. Mr. Clayton arrived by plane in Miami on November 8. The convention opened on November 10.

From Miami Beach, Mr. Clayton flew to Havana, Cuba. He is vice president in charge of expansion and chairman of the committee on press ethics.

LISTENING IN

By Carol Greer

One of Station KCLC's activities that is often overlooked, if not forgotten, is the Saturday morning program on Station KFUO in St. Louis. "The Lindenwood Children's Theatre of the Air" is a fifteen-minute dramatic production which has been going on every Sunday morning for some four years now. The scripts are written by all students of the radio writing class, and the plays are enacted by the radio production class.

Every other Saturday morning at 11:30 rabbits and bears and what's in store behind the microphone and weave a story that's aimed to thrill children from four to ten. You'd get a laugh out of it, too, to hear your skipper friends turn into all sorts of animated animals that will really convince you too. Those who are participating this year in these programs are Charlene Benson, Nell Culver, Deanna

Baron Kermerom, William Schmitz, and June Steed. It takes about six hours of steady rehearsal to whip the show into professional shape, so at nine o'clock on Saturday morning you can see the troupé drag into the St. Louis studio. Aside from the rehearsal before the program, four hours of class time are put in each week.

The greatest production problem involved in the show is that there are so few (four) in the class that many times each person must take two parts. It is almost a requirement to be able to change your voice. For instance, last week, Neil was a fox, a clam, and a turtle all in the same show. She even ended up talking to herself. Watch for these shows... they're listed on the monthly calendar. The next production will be November 18. For a jump back into your childhood days and fifteen minutes of pure fantasy listen in, won't you?

The Campus Hall of Fame

The Linden Bank staff hails our Hall of Fame nominee, Mary Lou Matthews, a Senior from Neosho, Mo., Mary Lou transferred to Lindenwood in her Sophomore year from the University of Arkansas, where she was a Kappa Kappa Gamma. She is a member of Phi Theta on the Linden Bank staff, and last year represented Irwin Hall in Student Council. This year she is climaxing her college career in journalism as service as the Library editor of the annual, Linden Leaves.

Since Mary Lou's primary interest is in journalism, she hopes, after graduation, to work on a newspaper.

So, congratulations to Mary Lou Matthews for adding another frame to the Hall of Fame.

Chairmen Chosen

For Religious Week

Chairmen have been chosen for Religious Emphasis Week to be held in February, Virgil Burton, chairman of the Student Christian Association sponsored program, has announced.

Chairman of Guidance is Mel Bemis; Anne Goodall is in charge of refreshments; Jayne Collins is chairman of the poster and art committee; Nell Culver will head the publicity committee, and Caroline England is vice-chairman of the program.

Religious Emphasis Week is an annual program held on the Lindenwood campus and is sponsored by the Student Christian Association.

It's a lovely full trouser-skirt with two deep "plant pockets." Yes, it really looks like leather suede, but it's that famous double-woven cotton GUUV-SUEDE. There is a single self-covered button at waist, genuine Key zipper. In fashion's pet colors.
